TO THE
RIGHT HONOURABLE
CHARLES EARL O'NEILL,
KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF ST. PATRICK,

Whose hereditary attachment to his Native Country

AND ITS MUSIC,

Must render him dear to every

IRISHMAN.

This Compilation is humbly Dedicated,

by his most obedient,

and very humble Servant,

JOHN MULHOLLAND.

PREFACE.

THE AUTHOR, in submitting this Work to the Public, feels it incumbent on him to give some account of the Origin and Progress of it. His FATHER began to collect about 90 years ago, and since his death, in 1770, the Author has had it in contemplation to augment the Compilation he had begun, with a view toward Publication.

Various circumstances, unnecessary here to relate, retarded his attempts, and it was not until after Mr. Bunting and Doctor Stephenson had published their expensive and elaborate Works, that he was emboldened to undertake this Publication.

It will be perceived by the skilful Musician and the Critic, that the Author has not made any use of what has been printed by those Gentlemen, with whom he has no idea of interfering, or of entering into any competition ; his object being to present to the World a plain, cheap, and simple Collection of IRISH MELODIES, such as he and his Father found them, without any attempt at improvements or variations. Should this Work answer the end proposed, that of spreading and facilitating the acquisition of a delightful and important branch of Knowledge and Amusement; he may probably venture to pursue the subject farther, as it would be easy to collect double the number of Airs now published.

It might be expected that he should give some account of the age and authors of the different compositions; but he forbears entering into any discussion of that kind at present; hoping that this subject may be taken up by some Literary Character, better able to investigate so delicate and curious a subject of research. Some of those airs are as late as the time of Carolan, but most of them are far more ancient, and many of them contain evidences of having been composed in very remote periods of antiquity.

This image shows a handwritten musical score on aged paper. The score is written in two systems, each containing two staves (treble and bass clef). The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/4. The first system is titled 'Meid naa na Ruapac 9' and the second system is titled 'O Rourke's Feast'. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and accidentals. There are three instances of the abbreviation 'ch' written below the staves, likely indicating a 'chord' or 'change'. The paper shows signs of age, including discoloration and some wear at the edges.

Handwritten musical score on aged paper, featuring six staves of music. The notation includes treble and bass clefs, a key signature of one sharp (F#), and various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and bar lines. The score is divided into sections by repeat signs (double bar lines with dots). The number "10" is written above the first staff, and the abbreviation "ch" appears below several staves, likely indicating a change or a specific musical instruction. The paper shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration.

A handwritten musical score on four staves. The notation is in a single system, likely for a single melodic line. The first staff begins with a treble clef and contains five measures of music, ending with a double bar line. The second staff continues the melody for five measures, also ending with a double bar line. The third staff contains five measures of music, ending with a double bar line. The fourth staff contains five measures of music, ending with a double bar line. The notation consists of eighth and sixteenth notes, often beamed together, with some rests. The paper is aged and shows some staining and wear along the left edge.

The first staff of music is written on a five-line treble clef. It begins with a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a common time signature (C). The tempo marking "Poco Allegro" is written in a cursive script below the staff. The melody consists of eighth and sixteenth notes, with some beamed pairs and slurs indicating phrasing. The staff is part of a larger manuscript page with a decorative border.

Handwritten musical notation on a single staff. The staff begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The notation consists of a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, many of which are beamed together. There are several slurs and ties throughout the piece, indicating phrasing and melodic continuity. The handwriting is in dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper.

A single staff of handwritten musical notation. It begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one sharp (F#). The melody consists of several measures, featuring eighth and sixteenth notes, some beamed together. There are also some rests and a final measure with a whole note. The handwriting is in dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper.

A single staff of handwritten musical notation. It begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The notation includes eighth notes, quarter notes, and half notes, some beamed together. There are several rests. Dynamic markings 'p' (piano) and 'f' (forte) are present. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.
