PSALM C.

Printed, Typographically, at WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS,

By ISAIAH THOMAS,

And Sold at his BOOK-STORE. Sold also by the BOOKSELLERS in Town and Country.

To the LOVERS of PSALMODY in the NEW-ENGLAND States.

THE general approbation which the first and second parts of this Collection of Sacred Harmony have received has encouraged me to finish the printing of the third part with greater alacrity.

To the Gentlemen who have favoured me with original Musick, and assisted me in the collection, I now return thanks.

Having been favoured with a copy of the Grand Chorus in that celebrated work, the MESSIAH, by HANDEL, one of the greatest musicians that ever delighted the ears of mortals, I am happy to give it a place in this Collection. — Although it has been thought by some, too hard to be learned, and too delicate to be sung, even by the best performers in this country, I doubt not but that there are many, who have not only skill to learn, but judgment to perform it, least equal to some of the best singers in Europe.

Taking the three parts of this work together, I believe it will be found to contain as great variety, and be as truly useful for schools, and other singing societies, as any ever yet published in America.

That it may answer the valuable purpose for which it was intended, is the sincere wish of

Your very humble servant,

Worcester, May, 1786.
