PREFACE.

THE Public are here presented with a small Book of Psalm Tunes, adapted principally for public worship. Being intended as a supplement only to the principal works of this kind now most in use. It was the original design of the Editors, that it should contain no tunes already before the public. A very few however are inserted, which may be found in some other publications, but most of these were printed before the Editors had seen the books that contain them. They were desirous of avoiding the too common practice of wresting from others, in this way, the fruit of their labors; and preferring rather to add to the common stock than to multiply copies of what is already extant. A few Hymn Tunes of greater length, than may be convenient for the usual services of the sabbath, are inserted, and also two or three sacred songs, which may be found suited to other religious occasions. It is hoped the style and character of the music generally will serve to sustain the present improved state of the science among us.

The musical score consists of four staves of music in common time (indicated by a 'C') and G major (indicated by a 'G'). The first staff uses a treble clef, the second a bass clef, the third an alto clef, and the fourth a bass clef. The lyrics are written below the staves, corresponding to the musical phrases. Measure numbers are present at the beginning of each staff.

Thy goodness does the cir - cling year, With fresh re - turns of plen - ty , crown;

And when thy glorious paths ap - pear, Thy fruitful clouds drop fatness down.

The music includes various note heads (circles, squares, diamonds) and rests, with some notes having stems and others being solid. Measures 1-4 show a progression from a single note to a more complex rhythmic pattern. Measures 5-8 continue this pattern, with measure 8 concluding the section. Measure numbers are placed below the staves: 6 4 3, 6 8 7, 6 6 5, #6; 6 5, 4 3, 2; 6 7, 6 6 6, 7 6 7.
