ALEXANDER BALL.

PIANO.

Fill! fill the sparkling brimmer! Fill for the moments fly! The stars weary light grows dimmer, And the moon fades away from the sky!

Fill for the signal flag is up! And the wind is veering round! In haste let us pledge our par - ting cup, To the health of the outward bound, In haste let us pledge our par - ting cup, To the health of the outward bound.

Colla voce.

SECOND VERSE.

Fill high! this hour to morrow, Nor toast nor jest shall be But a few shall meet in sorrow, While the ma - ny plough the sea!

Then, while were all to gether, Give the toast! let it cir - - - cle round! Full sails and prosperous wea - - - ther, And a health to the outward bound. Full sails and prosperous wea - - - ther, And a health to the outward bound. Colla voce.

THIRD VERSE.

Piu lento.

Let no adieu be spoken— To weep is a woman's part! Nor give we a farewell token, But a health from our in-most heart! And oft when the wind blows free, And the rough waves roll around, The health shall come back to memory, That we drank to the outward bound! The health shall come back to their memory, That we drank to the outward bound.
