GENERAL PREFACE

GENRELT FORORD

The Carl Nielsen Edition is an independent project under the auspices of the Music Department of the Royal Library, launched in 1994 on the initiative of the Ministry of Culture and funded by the Ministry and the foundation Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, with further financial support for the publication of the individual volumes from a number of other private foundations.

The edition is for both practical and scholarly use, and is based on critical editorial principles. It comprises all Carl Nielsen's finished works and completed individual pieces, and seeks as far as possible to reflect the works in the version last sanctioned by the composer. In cases where songs exist in several different arrangements by Carl Nielsen, all the versions are published.

Each work is furnished with an introduction which gives a brief account of the genesis of the work and its place in the composer's oeuvre, and a Critical Commentary including source description, editorial emendations and additions, and important alternative readings. The editorial material is published together with the music.

Works included in volumes with several independent works are also published in separate booklets. Part material is published for all the orchestral and chamber music works, and parts as well as piano score are published for the operas and the major choral works.

The edition is divided into the three main series Stage Music, Instrumental Music and Vocal Music, each further divided into volumes; within each genre the works are ordered chronologically.

Carl Nielsen Udgaven er et selvstændigt projekt under Det Kongelige Biblioteks Musikafdeling, iværksat i 1994 på Kulturministeriets foranledning og finansieret af Kulturministeriet og Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, hvortil kommer støtte fra en række private fonde til udgivelse af de enkelte bind.

Udgaven er til såvel praktisk som videnskabelig brug, tilrettelagt efter kritisk-videnskabelige udgivesprincipper. Den omfatter samtlige Carl Nielsens afsluttede værker og enkeltsatser og søger i videst mulige omfang at afspejle værkerne i den af komponisten senest sanktionerede version. I tilfælde, hvor sange foreligger i flere forskellige arrangementer fra Carl Nielsens hånd, udgives alle versioner.

Hvert værk er forsynet med en indledning, der kort beskriver værkets tilblivelseshistorie og placerer det i den samlede produktion, samt en kritisk beretning, hvor der redeges for kildesituationen, redaktionelle ændringer og tilføjelser og vigtige varianter. Den kritiske beretning udgives sammen med nodeteksten.

Værker, der indgår i bind med flere selvstændige værker, udgives også i separate hæfter. Til alle orkester- og kammermusikværker udgives stemmemateriale, og til operaerne og de større korværker udgives såvel stemmer som klaverpartitur.

Udgaven er opdelt i hovedserierne Scenemusik, Instrumentalmusik og Vokalmusik med tilhørende opdeling i enkelbind; inden for hver genre er værkerne ordnet kronologisk.

Series I, Stage Music

- Operas
- Music for other stage works
- Incidental music and arrangements

Series II, Instrumental Music

- Symphonies
- Other orchestral works
- Concertos
- Chamber music
- Works for organ
- Works for piano

Series III, Vocal Music

- Cantatas
- A cappella choral pieces
- Songs and recitations with piano, songs without accompaniment
- Songs arranged for vocal soloists and orchestra

Series IV, Juvenilia, Addenda et Corrigenda

Carl Nielsen's literary works are available in connection with the Edition.¹

Editorial principles

The music is reproduced with no typographical indications of editorial additions or emendations. These are documented in the Critical Commentary. Typography, score disposition, genre names, and instrument names have been normalized in accordance with present-day practice. With a few exceptions, discussed in more detail in the Critical Commentary, the many additions and changes in Carl Nielsen's works that have been made by friends and colleagues have been removed.

Articulation, dynamics, ties and slurs, execution markings and playing instructions have been normalized on the basis of analogies between clearly parallel passages. All such completions are documented in the Critical Commentary. Obvious writing and printing errors have been tacitly corrected.

Serie I, Scenemusik

- Operaer
- Musik til andre sceneværker
- Enkelte satser i sceneværker samt arrangementer

Serie II, Instrumentalmusik

- Symfonier

- Kammermusik
- Værker for orgel
- Værker for klaver

Serie III, Vokalmusik

- Kantater
- Korsatser a cappella
- Enstemmige sange og recitation med klaver, enstemmige sange uden akkompagnement
- Enstemmige sange i arrangement for orkester

Serie IV, Juvenilia, Addenda et Corrigenda

Carl Nielsens litterære arbejder foreligger udgivet i tilknytning til Udgaven.¹

Redaktionelle principper

Nodeteksten gengives uden typografisk markering af redaktionelle tilføjelser eller ændringer. Disse er dokumenteret i den kritiske beretning. Typografi, partitupostilling, instrument- og genrebetegnelser er normaliseret efter nutidig praksis. Med enkelte undtagelser, som der er gjort nærmere rede for i den kritiske beretning, er de mange tilføjelser og ændringer i Carl Nielsens værker, der er foretaget af venner og kolleger, fjernet.

Nodeteksten er normaliseret med hensyn til artikulation, dynamik, buer, foredragsbetegnelser og spilletekniske anvisninger således, at der er analogi mellem entydige parallelsteder. Alle sådanne kompletteringer dokumenteres i den kritiske beretning. Oplagte skrive- og trykfejl er stiltiende rettet.

Carl Nielsen often notated horns and trumpets with key signatures. This practice has been normalized to a notation exclusively using accidentals.

"Muta in" in connection with the retuning of timpani and changes between two instruments (for example clarinet in A and B^b) have been tacitly normalized. This also applies to the combination of ties and slurs.

In Carl Nielsen's manuscripts the dynamic markings are sometimes rather carelessly placed, and this is also reflected in the early printed editions. This has been tacitly adjusted.

Clefs are normally given as in the main source.

Carl Nielsen noterede ofte horn og trompeter med faste fortegn. Denne praksis er normaliseret til notation udelukkende med løse fortegn.

"Muta in" i forbindelse med omstemning af pauker og skift mellem to instrumenter (f.eks. klarinet i A og B^b) er stiltiende normaliseret. Det samme gælder kombinationen af buer og bindebuer.

I Carl Nielsens manuskripter er de dynamiske angivelser undertiden placeret noget skødesløst, hvilket afspejler sig i de tidlige trykte udgaver. Dette er stiltiende justeret.

Nøgler gengives normalt som i hovedkilden.

Telmányi to look through the work and approved his work with Pan and Syrinx in 1925-26 in a different score from the one used for printing. The printing manuscript, which has not survived, was probably a manuscript copy. Discrepancies between the printed source and Nielsen's fair copy, which was reviewed by Telmányi, may therefore be due to differences between the printing manuscript and the fair copy, and not necessarily to inadequate proofreading. Despite the fact that Wilhelm Hansen seems to have proposed to "engrave the parts after the score", the printed parts are probably based on the manuscript parts that are only incompletely preserved. The fair copy and the printed score both have inconsistencies in the information they contain – but each in its own way – so they do not necessarily supplement each other. The printed score, rather than the fair copy has been chosen as main source, since it is likely that Nielsen worked in the proof-reading phase with the printed score.

The rhapsodic overture A Fantasy Voyage to the Faroe Islands is an occasional work that Carl Nielsen was commissioned by the Royal Theatre in Copenhagen to write for a gala concert celebrating a visit from the Faroe Islands. On 4 January 1927 the composer wrote to his wife:

"Now over the next 8-10 days I have to write an overture to mark a big Faroese gala at the Royal Theatre supported by the State. I shall be very well paid and if I didn't want to, there would be no overture. I use motifs from the Faroese ballads, and I can easily manage that, and it will give me some pleasure as it is good that we do something for them. They will be dancing their national dances here and I think it will be quite amusing to watch".⁶⁹

The visit was planned for 16-17 January but was postponed until the autumn of the same year because of an influenza epidemic that led to a ban on dancing in public premises. True to form, Nielsen had only started on the composition at the last end det, som anvendtes til trykforlæg. Trykforlægget, som ikke er overleveret, har formodentlig været en afskrift. Uoverensstemmelser mellem den trykte kilde og Carl Nielsens renskrift, som Telmányi gennemstår, kan derfor skyldes uoverensstemmelser mellem trykforlægget og renskriften og ikke nødvendigvis mangelfuld korrekturlæsning. På trods af at Wilhelm Hansen tilsvneladende havde foreslægt, at "stikke Stemmerne efter Partituret", er de trykte stemmer sandsynligvis baseret på det håndskrevne materiale, der kun foreligger ufuldstændigt. Ren skriften og det trykte partitur er begge inkonsistente med hensyn til den information, de indeholder – dog hver på deres måde – og de supplerer derfor ikke nødvendigvis hinanden. Som hovedkilde er valgt det trykte partitur frem for ren skriften, eftersom det er sandsynligt, at Carl Nielsen i korrekturfasen har arbejdet med dette.

Den rhapsodiske ouverture, En Fantasirejse til Færøerne, er et lejligheds værk, som Carl Nielsen skrev på bestilling af Det Kongelige Teater til en fest forestilling i anledning af et besøg fra Færøerne. Den 4. januar 1927 skrev komponisten således til sin hustru:

"Nu skal jeg i de næste 8-10 Dage skrive en Ouverture i Anledning af en stor færøesk Fest paa det kgl: Theater, som Staten giver Støtte til. Jeg faar det meget godt betalt og hvis jeg ikke vilde, blev der ingen Ouverture. Jeg bruger Motiver fra de færøeske Folkeviser, og det kan jeg sagtens faa gjort og det vil være mig en vis Glæde, da det er godt, vi gør noget for dem. De skal danse deres Nationaldanser her og det bliver vist helt morsomt at se."⁶⁹

Besøget var planlagt til den 16.-17. januar men blev udsat til efteråret samme år på grund af en influenzaepidemi, som medførte et forbud mod dans i offentlige lokaler. Sin vane tro, var Carl Nielsen først kommet i gang med kompositionen i sidste øjeblik, og han benyttede udsættelsen af besøget til også moment, and he took advantage of the postponement of the visit to put off the completion of the composition too; not until 6 November was he able to finish off the score. On 21 November he wrote to his son-in-law Emil Telmáni: "You mustn't think I attach any importance to this thing; it's an occasional composition and nothing but a piece of craftsmanship from my hand".⁷⁰

A couple of days before the first performance the newspaper Politiken printed an interview with Nielsen where he talked about the overture. It says:

"After all it's an occasional work, he says modestly, a sort of craftsmanship ... but I have personally been happy working with it and I think it has come to sound very good. I have used many of the Faroese melodies in it, but the introduction and ending are free composition.

- So what is this voyage like?

- I begin by describing the sea, as it is sensed during the voyage up there - the monotonous mighty sea. It is quiet, but I think that it is precisely on the calm sea that one most strongly senses its terrible depth ... its depth and endlessness at the same time. During the voyage we suddenly hear a bird cry that makes us think that we are near land. Of course generally speaking I am no great lover of programme music, but this time I think that the occasion called for a programme for the journey ... some people on board now seem to see land, they get enthusiastic, a fanfare tells you that, but the mist obscures the view, and it falls calm again. Then new bird cries rise up, and the land looms ahead. The music grows in volume and seriousness and breaks into a Faroese melody; on land many people are standing to welcome us, and we hear their shouting and stamping. With no explanatory transition I now place the traveller in the midst of a feast, with singing and dancing. I depict this feast in strong music where the ballad motifs play a role - and the depiction of the feast is interrupted by a Faroese folk tune. It calms down the music for a moment, creates a mood of gentleness amidst the dancing.

But again the feast livens up to dancing and merriment, until the end - then it all subsides in one long note, a very low clarinet note that quietly fades out ...

- Where did you get to know the Faroese melodies?

- They have interested me for many years. I knew

Hjalmar Thuren,⁷¹ who collected many of them up there, getting at udsætte færdiggørelsen af værket; først den 6. november kunne han afslutte partituret, og den 21. november skrev han til sin svigersøn Emil Telmáni: "Du maa ikke tro, jeg tillægger denne Sag nogensomhelst Betydning; det er en Lejlighedskomposition og ikke andet end et Stykke Haandværksarbejde fra min Haand"⁷⁰

Et par dage før uropførelsen bragte Politiken et interview med Carl Nielsen, hvor han fortæller om ouverturen. Heri hedder det:

"Det er jo et Lejlighedsværk, siger han beskeden, saadan en Slags Haandværk ... men jeg har selv været glad ved at arbejde med det, og jeg tror, det er kommet til at klinge meget godt. Jeg har anvendt mange af Færingerne Melodier deri, men hele Indledningen og Slutningen er fri Komposition.

- Hvordan er saa denne Rejse?

- Jeg begynder med at skildre Havet, som det fornemmes under Oprejsen, det ensformige, mægtige Hav. Det er stille, men jeg synes, at man netop paa det rolige Hav stærkest fornemmer dets forfærdelige Dybde ... dets Dybde og Uendelighed paa én Gang. Under Sejladsen høres da pludselig et Fugleskrig, det faar os til at tænke paa, at vi er nær Land. Jeg er jo i Almindelighed ikke nogen Ynder af Programmusik, men denne Gang syntes jeg, at Anledningen talte for at lægge et Program for Rejsen ... nogle om Bord synes nu at se Land, de bliver ivrige, en Fanfare fortæller derom, men Taagen hindrer Udsynet, og det er igen stille. Saa løfter der sig nye Fugleskrig, og Landet dukker op forude. Musikken stiger i Styrke og Alvor og slaar over i en færøsk Melodi, i Land staar mange Mennesker for at tage imod, og man hører deres Raab og Tramp. Uden forklarende Overgang sætter jeg nu den Rejsende midt ind i en Fest, i Sangen og Dansen. Jeg skildrer denne Fest i stærke Toner, hvori Folkevisernes Motiver spiller ind - og saa afbrydes Skildringen af Festen med en færøsk Folkemelodi. Den stilner Musiken et Øjeblik, skaber en Stemning af Blidhed midt under Dansen.

Men Festen lever op paa ny til Dans og Lystighed, indtil Afslutningen - da toner det hele ud i én lang Tone, en meget dyb Klarinetton, der stille svinder hen ...

- Hvor har De lært færing-Melodierne at kende?

- De har interesseret mig i mange Aar. Jeg var en Bekendt af Hjalmar Thuren,⁷¹ der samlede mange af dem people to sing them for him, and I have studied the large collection that Dr. Grüner-Nielsen⁷² owns. Many of the songs are very beautiful, and they have a wealth of songs on the Faroe Islands. They are often closely related to the Danish ones, but with small variations – just as there are variants of the old texts that Svend Grundtvig⁷³ collected. But some of the melodies also have their own tone.

– How would you described this tone?

– It's borne up by a certain quiet seriousness. It reminds me of people who go around quietly and yet have a strong effect on others because behind the calm you sense solid substance. You can't call Faroese song melancholy – rather, it gives the impression of a mind that is resigned to the will of Fate.

It is these melodies that I have had as material,⁷⁴

Nielsen concludes ... they have set the tone for my overture. I did not create so much of it myself through any spiritual experience, and yet the work has filled me with pleasure. I have tried to offer some of the same spirit that the painter or sculptor creates when he places his abilities at the service of applied art.⁷⁵

Carl Nielsen conducted the overture as the first programme item in the gala performance on Sunday 27 November 1927 at the Royal Theatre, where the other items included Faroese and Danish national songs and Faroese and Danish folk dances. Three days later – on 30 November 1927 – he again conducted the work in a concert at the Copenhagen City Hall with the Copenhagen Philharmonic Orchestra in connection with the Faroese celebrations. For these concerts the printed programmes listed the following subtitles for the work: "The Calm Sea – The Land on Arrival – Dancing and Singing – Farewell – Calm at Sea". Apart from the performances mentioned here Nielsen probably never conducted this work again.

That Nielsen did not attach great importance to the work is further indirectly evident from his letters to Telmányi in this period: apart from the quotation above the work is not mentioned. The composer is far more preoccupied by the ⁷³ Danish folklorist (1824-1883).

⁷⁴ Carl Nielsen uses the Faroese folk tune known in Denmark as the hymn tune "Paaskeklokken kimed mildt".

deroppe, idet han lod Folk synge dem for sig, og jeg har studeret den store Samling, Dr. Grüner-Nielsen⁷² ejer. Mange af Sangene er meget smukke, og de har jo en Rigdom af Sange paa Færøerne. De er ofte nært beslægtede med de danske, kun med smaa Variationer – ganske ligesom der er Variationer i de gamle Tekster, *Svend Grundtvig*⁷³ samlede. Nogle af Melodierne har dog ogsaa deres egen Tone.

– Hvordan vil De karakterisere denne Tone?

– Den bæres af en vis stilfærdig Alvor. Den minder mig om Mennesker, der gaar stille omkring og dog virker stærkt paa andre, fordi man bag Roen aner et sluttet Indhold. Melankolsk kan man ikke kalde den færøske Sang, snarere giver den Indtryk af et Sind, der resignerer over for, hvad Skæbnen har villet.⁷⁴

Disse Melodier er det, jeg har haft som Materiale,⁷⁴ slutter Carl Nielsen ... de har slaaet Stemningen an for min Ouverture. Selv har jeg ikke skabt saa meget deraf gennem nogen sjælelig Oplevelse, og alligevel har Arbejdet fyldt mig med Glæde. Jeg har prøvet at give lidt af det samme, som Maleren og Billedhuggeren skaber, naar han stiller sin Evne i den anvendte Kunsts Tjeneste.⁷⁵

Carl Nielsen dirigerede ouverturen som første programpunkt ved festforestillingen søndag den 27. november 1927 på Det Kongelige Teater, hvor der bl.a. også blev sunget færøske og danske nationale sange og danset færøske og danske folkedanse. Tre dage senere – den 30.11.1927 – dirigerede han påny værket ved en koncert på Københavns Rådhus med Københavns filharmoniske Orkester i forbindelse med Færøfesten. Ved disse koncerter var der i de trykte programmer anført følgende undertitler for værket: "Havet i Ro – Landet og Ankomsten – Dans og Sang – Afsked – Stilhed paa Havet". Ud over de her nævnte opførelser dirigerede Carl Nielsen antagelig ikke siden værk.

At Carl Nielsen ikke tillagde værket større betydning, fremgår endvidere indirekte af hans breve til Telmányi i denne periode: bortset fra det allerede anførte citat nævnes

For the present edition the ink fair copy has been used as the main source. This source is only partly autograph (bb. 1-127 are a manuscript copy, while bb. 128-222 are autograph). It is clear that the copyist of the first part of the work has forgotten some dynamic markings; these have been added from the pencil draft. In 1942 the work was printed in score and parts with a number of changes for example in slurring. These changes have been disregarded in the present edition.

Like A Fantasy Voyage to the Faroe Islands, Bohemian-Danish Folk Songs too is a commissioned work. The occasion was that the (then very new) Danish Radio Symphony Orchestra (today the Danish National Symphony Orchestra/DR) was to give a concert with a programme consisting exclusively of Czech music to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the foundation of the Republic of Czechoslovakia – an occasion also marked by several other events in Copenhagen. Out of respect for the Czech people the head of the Radio Symphony Orchestra, Emil Holm,⁷⁷ had asked Nielsen to compose this paraphrase for string orchestra of a Czech and a Danish folk melody. The Czech melody is “Teče voda, teče” (“The water flows, it flows”), said to have been the favourite song of the first president of Czechoslovakia, Thomás Masaryk, which is why he was given the nickname “Old teče”.⁷⁸ The Danish element consists of the melody of the medieval ballad “Dronning Dagmar ligger i Ribe syg” (“Queen Dagmar lies ill in Ribe”). Dagmar, who died in 1212 and who had married the Danish King Valdemar II The Victorious in 1205, was born the Bohemian Princess Dagmar,⁷⁹ a relationship that further strengthens the dual national symbolism of the work.

Til nærværende udgave har blækrenskriften været anvendt som hovedkilde. Denne kilde er kun delvis i autograf (t. 1-127 er afskrift, mens t. 128-222 er i autograf). Det er tydeligt, at afskriveren af første del af værket har glemt nogle dynamiske anvisninger; disse er tilføjet efter blyantskladden. I 1942 blev værket trykt i partitur og stemmer med en del ændringer mht. bl.a. buer – ændringer, som der ikke er taget hensyn til i nærværende udgave.

Ligesom En Fantasirejse til Færøerne, er også Bøhmisk-dansk Folketone et bestillingsværk. Anledningen var, at det dengang ganske unge Statsradiofoniens Symfoniorkester skulle give en koncert med et program udelukkende bestående af tjekkisk musik, idet man ønskede at markere tiåret for oprettelsen af republikken Tjekkoslovakiet – et jubilæum, der i øvrigt blev markeret ved flere arrangementer i København. I respekt for det tjekkiske folk havde orkestrets chef, kammersanger Emil Holm,⁷⁷ fået Carl Nielsen til at komponere denne parafase for strygeorkester over en tjekkisk og en dansk folkelmelodi. Den tjekkiske melodi er “Teče voda, teče” (“Det flyder, vandet, det flyder”), en sang, der skal have været Tjekkoslovakiets første præsident Thomás Masaryks yndlingssang, hvorfor han fik kælenavnet “den gamle teče”.⁷⁸ Det danske islæt udgøres af melodien til folkevisen “Dronning Dagmar ligger i Ribe syg”. Dagmar, der døde i 1212 og som i 1205 var blevet gift med den danske kong Valdemar II Sejr, var født bøhmisk prinsesse,⁷⁹ et forhold der ydermere styrker værkets mellemnationale symbolik.

Rhapsodic Overture, A Fantasy Journey to the Faroe Islands, fair copy (Source A), page 22 (bb. 126-130). On this page one sees clearly that Carl Nielsen took over the fair-copying from b. 128 (but also added the percussion parts in b. 127).

Rhapsodisk ouverture, En Fantasirejse til Færøerne, renskrift (kilde A), side 22 (t. 126-130). På siden ses det tydeligt, at Carl Nielsen overtog udarbejdelsen af renskriften fra og med t. 128 (dog har han tilføjet slagtøjsstemmene i t. 127).

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s). Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

was used from 1918 until 1923 ("Bremen 174.23. Städtisches Orchester / dirigent: Charles Lautrup [?] Heinz Kriete. Willy Loppe." added in pencil in vl. 2 no. 4). The missing parts were probably used as a printing manuscript.

The fair copy (C) has numerous additions written in pencil by Carl Nielsen and emphasized in ink by Emil Telmányi. In at least a couple of cases Carl Nielsen has used one of Telmányi's own additions (b. 31 and b. 35). This suggests that Telmányi's additions in Source C were approved by Carl Nielsen.

The printing manuscript, which appears to have been lost, was once in the possession of the publishers, and was probably a manuscript copy. Discrepancies between the printed score (Source A) and Source C may therefore be due to differences between the printing manuscript and C, not necessarily to inadequate proof-reading.

The printed parts (B) were probably based on the manuscript material (E), as the string parts of Source B included bowing and fingerings, probably taken from E. Telmányi's personal copies of the printed score (A¹) and parts (B¹) have a few additions and changes in ink.

The source filiation is complex: when the work was to be printed, the publishers asked Nielsen to send the printing manuscript, to which the composer replied that they had already received it. However, the publishers could not find it and asked Carl Nielsen to send the material that he had with him. Nielsen asked Telmányi to add the dedication to the fair copy (C), and read through the manuscript before forwarding it to Wilhelm Hansen. But the publishers found the original manuscript and wrote to Carl Nielsen that he did not need to send Source C after all. The corrections that were made in C by the composer and Telmányi were thus not included in the printed edition (A). Some of the additions in C are however also in A. This may be because they were already in the printing manuscript or were added in the proofs. Unfortunately the additions are not consistent.

The printed score (A) has been chosen as the main source; this entailed, however, that the differences between this source and the other preserved sources are greater than one would otherwise expect: the printing manuscript appears to have been lost; the printed part material (B) is based on the manuscript parts (E), which only exist in incomplete form. Information in Source B which is not in A cannot be incorporated, since the printing manuscript for the parts is Source E, which includes additions that were probably made in connection with performances – that is, performance-related additions.

A collation of the sources A, A¹, B, B¹ and C reveals that they are inconsistent, but each in its own way, and that they thus do not necessarily supplement one another. To avoid confusion, it is therefore important to keep the sources separate. The fair copy (C) might have functioned as a main source, but it is more likely that the composer worked with A in the proof-reading phase.

Since the printing manuscript no longer exists, a collation of D (the draft), C and A is important. Discrepancies between C and A can perhaps be explained by D. Discrepancies between D and C may be conscious or unconscious omissions/changes: an example that can be given is that in the draft Carl Nielsen notated the clarinet without a key signature and therefore added a large number of accidentals, which led to the possibility of errors in the fair copy, where there are key signatures. Such obvious, unconscious errors are emended in the present edition. By contrast, differences in pitch may still be deliberate changes.

Paper type: K.U.V. Beethoven papier Nr. 31. (12 Linien). (12 staves).

The parts have additions in ink, pencil and in red and blue crayon. A few additions in ink, pencil and blue crayon in Carl Nielsen's hand. Datings in cor.1 and tr.1 document that this set of parts was used for the first performance on 27.11.1927 and the performance on 30.11.1927, both conducted by the composer.

The earliest source of the work is Carl Nielsen's pencil draft (B), some of which has only been written out in short score form. B was the source for the copyist who made the fair copy (A) bb. 1-127, while Carl Nielsen himself fair-copied bb. 128-222. A was in turn the source for the part material (C). A, C probably made up the only performance material that existed during the composer's lifetime. For the present edition, A has been used as the main source. The copyist who made the fair copy of bb. 1-127 appears to have forgotten some dynamic markings. These have been added on the basis of the pencil draft. It was not until 1942 that the work was printed in score and parts by the publishers Skandinavisk og Borups Musikforlag, with a number of changes in among other things slurring. These changes have been disregarded in the present edition.

The clarinet parts in A are notated with no key signature up to b. 90. In the present edition this has been normalized to key signatures in accordance with present-day practice. In A the tenor trombones are notated with a bass clef. In the present edition this has been normalized to notation in tenor clefs. In A, cymbals are designated simply as Piatti. However the instrument must be a suspended cymbal (piatto sospeso), at least up to b. 46. After this, the part can be read as both piatti and piatto sospeso. In the present edition the instrument is taken to be piatto sospeso throughout the work.
