NOTE.

 "On the 4th of July, 1743, Handel commenced the famous Te Deum and Anthem for the victory of Dettingen, which rescued from ruin the Austro-English army commanded by George II. They were solemnly sung in the presence of the King, in the royal chapel of St. James's, on the 27th of November, 1743, after having been rehearsed on the 18th and 25th, at Whitehall Chapel, during the forenoon. On the 19th, a journal spoke of the rehearsal in these terms:— 'Yesterday [Nov. 18th, 1743] a Te Deum and Anthem, composed by Mr. Handel for his Majesty, were rehearsed before a splendid assembly at Whitehall Chapel, and are said by the best judges to be so truly masterly and sublime, as well as new in their kind, that they prove this great genius not only inexhaustible, but likewise still rising to a higher degree of perfection.' Posterity has ratified this judgment. Handel set to music five different times, in the space of thirty years, the Hymn of Ambrose, and always with new beauties, always with a fresh colour. It has been remarked that he gave each time to the verse, 'To thee all angels cry aloud,' a plaintive sense and tune. The Dettingen Te Deum and Anthem, destined to celebrate victory, have an essentially martial character. The trumpets and the kettle-drums mingle in them frequently with overpowering brilliancy."

From V. Schalcher's Life of Handel.

• • • "The chorus, 'To thee Cherubin and Seraphin continually do cry,' may be described as the greatest 'Sanctus' (otherwise, hymn of adoration) existing in musical art; having some decided peculiarities of its own, which belong to the arrangement of the text. In every Catholic Mass-taking, as the finest instance, the 'Sanctus' of Mozart's 'Requiem,'—in that of the great Oratorio of modern time, 'Elijah'—the setting begins at once, on the words 'Holy, holy.' In this 'Dettingen Te Deum' the act of adoration is also made a piece of procession and pageant music (not to speak irreverently), as well as a hymn. The myriads of adoring angels and archangels are continually arriving before the steps of the great White Throne.

 "If, in 'Elijah,' the 'Sanctus' has a translucent, quiet glory, in the 'Dettingen Te Deum' we find a force, a monotony, a march (the march of myriads), a representation of the scene, together with the expression of its purpose, which give the elder 'Sanctus' its right preeminence. Never were any four consecutive notes of the scale made more wondrously effective by repetition than those to the words—used first, as accompaniment—afterwards, in every change of key, against the one prolonged note, given to the words 'Holy, holy.' Observe, again, how the climax in the 'Hallelujah' of 'The Messiah,' made by the diatonic ascent of the treble voices, on the words 'King of kings,' is used here again, without any satiety by reiteration; leading, after a short return to the original phrase, to the burst of the full chorus, on the last repetition of the words 'Holy, holy!' and this, further, outdone by the stupendous yet simple chords, on the phrase 'Heaven and earth are full of the majesty of thy glory,' with the pedal in the bass, used with wondrous amplifying force. The plainness of this chorus, built, virtually, on a phrase of four notes of the scale, may have led it to be undervalued; but by no writer who has ever lived has such colossal splendour been reached. This chorus may rank, as has been said, with the 'Hallelujah' of 'The Messiah,' and with the final chorus, 'The Lord shall reign,' in 'Israel,' albeit it be made up of fewer materials than either."

From H. F. Chorley's Handel Studies.

* These two bars are in Handel's MS. Score, but have been hitherto omitted in all the printed editions that have been published, with the exception of that brought forward in 1846 by the Handel Society: the musical world are indebted to Sir George Smart, who edited that copy, for having discovered and restored these two additional bars from Handel's genuine text, which are, of course, here retained, in order to render this Edition as correct and complete as possible.

THE END.

A New Edition of the ACCOUNT OF THE TONIC SOL-FA METHOD, by JOHN CURWEN, is now ready. It contains a corrected List of Publications, and new Testimonies to the usefulness of the Method. Price four copies for a penny. There is clear reason for believing that at least a hundred thousand pupils were under instruction on this method during the past year. (July, 1859.)

THE TONIC SOL-FA REPORTER, and MAGAZINE OF VOCAL MUSIC FOR THE PEOPLE; containing intelligence on Progress of the Tonic Sol-fa Movement, and 8 pages of Music. (8000 a month.)

THE STANDARD COURSE OF LESSONS ON THE TONIC SOL-FA METHOD OF TEACHING TO SING. By JOHN CURWEN. Complete, with Additional Exercises, Nos. 1 and 2, in cloth, 1s. 6d. Capable of serving as a direct Introduction to the use of the Established Notation in any popular Tune-book.

"THE SABBATH HYMN AND TUNE BOOK," a book for the Congregation and the Sabbath School (price 1s. 6d.), presents at every opening a Tune (the Harmonies revised, or entirely recast, by JAMES TURLE, Esq., of Westminster Abbey), and six or seven Hymns carefully adapted to that Tune, and marked for expression. (Edited by JOHN CURWEN.) The singing of the "same hymn to the same tune" will itself be a revolution in Psalmody. The Hymns have been anxiously selected with the hope of suiting all the varieties of Christian experience, doctrine, and emotion. This will appear on the inspection of a novel Index of Subjects, or "Guide to the Choice of a Hymn." There are 77 Tunes, and 467 Hymns. The prices are, cloth flush, 1s. 6d.; sheep, 2s.; French morocco, 2s. 6d.

"THE SABBATH HYMN BOOK," price 1s., containing 467 Hymns, large type, is also ready. 1000 copies of this book have, by mistake, been bound in better covers than can be permanently afforded. The prices are, cloth flush, 1s.; sheep, 1s. 4d.; French morocco, 1s. 9d. Some will use the Hymn Book, with other tunes, selecting a tune suited to their own case, to occupy the place of each of the existing tunes.

Small-type editions of the Hymn Book, price 6d., and of the Sol-fa Hymn and Tune Book, price 1s., are contemplated.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.—The "PEOPLE'S SERVICE OF SONG," a Tune Book for the Pew and the Home Circle (edited by J. CURWEN), has been published nine years, and has already obtained a large and established hold on the public favour. The Publisher now finds himself able to reduce the price of the various editions. The Pianoforte and Full Score edition, containing 212 Psalm Tunes, Chants, and Congregational Anthems, with four verses of a Hymn, in large type, and marked for expression, accompanying each Tune, is reduced in price from 7s. 6d. to 5s. It is extensively used in families for Sabbath evening worship. The Organ and Short Score edition is reduced from 3s. to 2s. The Tonic Sol-fa edition from 1s. 6d. to 1s. The Tenor Part (in the G clef) is reduced from 9d. to 6d. The Men's Part is, as before, 1s.; the Women's Part is the same; and the Sol-fa Women's Part remains at 6d. The new bindings of the books reduced in price will be slightly inferior, but those who make the earliest applications will obtain the books in their former bindings.

CLASSICS OF VOCAL MUSIC

IN THE TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION.

The Tonic Sol-fa Notation, which has proved itself so invaluable an aid to the singer's early steps, is found to possess an equally great advantage in the highest walks of vocal music. For long after our pupil has obtained a good proficiency in sight-singing from the Established Notation, there will still remain the difficulty of recognizing the keys, and keeping in view the proper place of the Tonic (Doh) in those works of the great Masters in which transition from key to key is very frequent and very rapid. Only a highly educated musician and quick-sighted harmonist can truly conquer this difficulty in connection with the Established Notation. But with our Tonic Sol-fa Notation, the keys being plainly interpreted at every step, this difficulty does not occur; and the common sight-singer may safely tread, without the aid of instruments, where only before a musician could go.

THE TONIC SOL-FA REPORTER, and MAGAZINE OF VOCAL MUSIC FOR THE PEOPLE;

containing Intelligence on Progress of the Tonic Sol-fa Movement, and 8 pages of Music.

The circulation of this Magazine is now (June, 1859), 8000 a month. It forms a bond of union and a means of mutual acquaintance for the friends of the Tonic Sol-fa Method in all parts of the country. It is also read in distant countries, and at mission stations. It occasionally secures united action. It corrects errors, it stimulates improvement, it seeks to raise the standard of good teaching. It diffuses far and wide, by means of constantly recurring examples, that propagandist spirit which makes us desire to communicate to others the musical and moral benefits which we have ourselves received from the Tonic Sol-fa Method. Through the increase of advertisements, and new facilities of production, it is now hoped that the sale of 12,000 a month will cover its expenses. For a list of the music as far as No. 79, see advertisements in "Standard Course."
